A slightly modified version of the Chelveston course was used this week and it proved a bit of a hit with the junior members, three of whom managed to smash their personal bests and one breaking the course record.

Having tried the original version of the course the week before, it was agreed to move away from the badly pot holed Newton Bromswold to A6 stretch of road and start the race nearer the A6, then do two loops of the roundabout section.

The turnout for the race was good considering the windy evening and still being in the peak holiday period.

George fox was the first rider past the timekeeper and so was the first rider to set a personal best for this new course, taking a large chunk (1.12) from his previous fastest time for 10 miles.

The next, personal best beater, was Edward Palfreeman who took 1.17 from his previous weeks best time producing another fine ride; with his brother Chris adding to a family double for PB's with another excellent improvement (1.15) and a high place in the overall fastest.

Liam Stones rode his first event with the club and worked hard to a very respectable first time.

New members Michael and James Berry with their first race also added the first tandem ride on the course, with younger son Charlie (12) putting in a fine effort on a mountain bike; he even continued after a slight off course excursion, showing determination to finish the event with a good time for his first race.

Robert Swannack has been getting into form for the end of the season and put in a good ride to push Alistair Shed back to fourth place.

Alan West made good use of his local knowledge and initial idea to use the course in this format to produce a good time and take second place.

And leaving the fastest till last, Tom Kruger pounding a large gear to a course record and a very fine performance, using all of his excellent recent form to good effect and setting a time that will now stand until next year.

Next week's Wednesday evening event will be on the Whiston Hilly course with the race signing on finishing at 6.30pm for a race start 6.45pm.
